Information for EHaz Mexico Field Excursion 2008

Accommodation      This will be in cheap hotels. See above.

Weather              In Central Mexico, some showers have occurred during the last few days, so bring a rain jacket or poncho. At Popocatepetl, the weather can be cold (5°C) and/or windy be prepared for that. In Michoacán, the weather might be very hot at Jorullo volcano (35°C). At Colima, rain is unlikely, but not impossible. If everyone brings rain gear perhaps it will remain dry!!

Costs                 Hotels will cost between about $15 and $20 based on sharing a room. Please ask Eliza, Bill, John and Glyn they will have all information for hotels. Dinners will cost between US$5 and $15. If your budgets are tight there will usually be the cheaper options available. We will bring our lunches to the field.

Currency             If you have a debit card, you always can withdraw some cash from the ATMs during the trip, or you could bring cash (maybe $500 USD) and exchange it at the airport (the best rate you will find). If you want to exchange more money, in Michoacán and Colima there are several places where you may exchange, although the exchange rate would be not be so good, and it might be inconvenient. The exchange rate for an ATM withdrawal is usually OK.

Laundry	It is a tight schedule, but laundry is always possible at hotels at reasonable prices, in particular at Uruapan where we will be 3 nights.
Things to bring	Hat, Sun-block, insect spray, shorts are comfortable but sometimes thorns are a problem or the weather conditions change very quickly, bring those pants with zipper to convert into shorts. Bring good hiking boots, some terrain might be rough. Some people like to drink lots of water a “camel-bag” is a good solution, especially during long hikes. Don't over pack, as the vans will be tight as it is.
Altitude	During the Popocatépetl and Colima part of the excursion will reach over 4000 m. If anyone has had problems at altitude before they should let us know. Typically there are 1 or 2 people that are affected in a group and may need to be taken down.
